OF THE UNITED STATES. The Pope's Brief-Not One-sixth of the Appointed Sum Raised-Row It Will be anaged-Dispute About Raising Funds. ROME, April 30 .- The event of the past week in the ecclesiastical circles of Rome the formal delivery to Bishop Keane of Rishmond of the Pope's brief approving the plan which defines the scope of the proposed American Catholic University. A committee of the Propaganda, specially selected for their knowledge of such matters, had been for months carefully examining every detail, Pope Leo himself frequently taking a hand or being consulted. Very few alterations were made in the plan drawn up by the Amer-lean Bishops, and the measure, as a whole, was thoroughly endorsed. In his brief, addressed to "Our beloved son, James Gibbons, Cardinal of the Holy Roman Church, colle dispensation Archbishop of Baltimore. the Holy Father expresses joy at the manifestations of American devotion to the Holy See, alludes to his predecessors as having been promoters of universities and colleges from the beginning, his own desire to reëstablish the study of St. Thomas Aquinas's philosophy, the necessity that the proposed university should be under the direct guidance of a specially en committee of Bishops, and that no important step be taken without first submitting It to the judgment of the Holy See. The choice of the site is left to the Bishops, and Bishop

Koane is approved as rector. Knowing that a good many wild rumors have been floating around in America concerning the character, alms, resources, and methods o the new university, your correspondent sought an ecclesiastic intimately connected with the matter, and drew from him a pretty full acsount. It is not necessary to dwell upon the prigin of the idea, the gift of Miss Caldwell, the discussion at the third Plenary Council, the formation of a Board, the collections taken up. the selection of Washington as the site, besause these have already been thoroughly set forth in THE BUN. Without undertaking to relute the various rumors, or to indicate the proportions of truth or falsehood in each, the ollowing additional facts may be of interest:

The amount of subscriptions up to the present moment, including Miss Caldwell's munificent gift of $300,000, will hardly reach $800,-000. Now the plan submitted contemplated the outlay of at least $5,000,000, and it was debated for a long while what course to take. some urged an appeal to popular subscriptions, arguing that the pennies of the poor would soon roll up the millions denied by the aggard dollars of the rich. A method like that of the Propagation Society of Lyons, France. was suggested. If 1,000,000 out of the 8,000,000 Catholics of the United States could be induced to enroll themselves into a sort of band pledged to give each ten cents a month, this would pro duce, after deducting expenses and possible delinquents, the sum of $1,000,000 a year. In four years the sum needed would be raised in this manner, while the plan of soliciting the wealthy alone would not at the present rate realize such an amount in thirty or forty years. Father Drumgoole's magnificent success was pointed to as a proof that this method of collecting and accumulating small contributions sould be carried out in the United States.

the poor Catholics had enough burdens to bear in the way of religious contributions without placing another, however light, upon their shoulders. They feared that this additional call in the cause of higher education might damage to some extent the system of parochial chools, which bears so heavily upon parishes where it is in use, and which will soon be in active operation in every parish. Primary edueation is the first necessity, and no step should be taken that could possibly damage it. Some of the more radical Bishops were even of opinion that it would be better to devote the money raised, of course with the consent of the donors, to the parochial schools, and to appeal to the wealthy for more aid rather than re verse the process. At length it was decided that the very idea of a university implied that it should derive its existence from the munifithe many, and while the Church as a whole might be benefited by the mingling among its people of men highly polished and cultivated, still these men, coming principally from the wealthy element, would be the chief benefleiaries in their own persons. Poor men someout of ten they are the dependent relatives of the wealthy.

Then arose the question whether they should wait, as originally intended, until the subscriptions had amounted to $5,000,000, or begin on the capital already at hand. The latter plan was adopted. At first all the means will be expended upon a seminary, having all the skeleton apparatus of a university, for the higher culture of candidates for the priestbood. Here clerical students can be sent to acquire a broader knowledge of what they have been studying. Under the direction of skilful professors they will listen to the most sminent lecturers that can be secured, who will treat, not of the elements of learning, but of the philosophy of the various sciences. Thus, the student will not be expected to go through history books conning facts chapter by chapter, as he did at school and col-iege. He will be supposed to know these already, and the lecturer will treat of the philosophy of history in its breadth, of the causes of the rise and fall of nations, of the origin and relation of races, and the general violasitudes of humanity. The same rule applies to canon law, morals, the natural sciences, and every other branch of inquiry. not the acquisition of facts, but the enlargement of the student's thinking power. If he is sevoting himself to a specialty, he unlearns that habit of the mind to think his own line the only one in the world, and learns that ra-Monal creatures are pursuing various other branches. When this branch of the university is thoroughly established it is hoped that other colleges will grow up, around it, as at Oxford and Cambridge, in this respect challenging that natural propensity of a rich man to found a complete college by himself.without merging his contribution into the common fund.

No religious order will have control of the university, and the member of no religious order will be excluded from a professorship because of his order. It would be a somewhat heavy weight to place the institution in ary exclusive hands, for it is intended to be the coping stone of Catholic education in America, and to draw from every college within the bounds of the United States. The professors will be selected on the ground of their fitness, and the best men will, possible, be secured, regardless of the fact whether they be Jesuits. Dominicans, Benediclines, secular priests, or laymen. Mr. St. George Mivart will be offered the chair of natural science or biology, but it is not expected that 29 will accept. He is comfortably fixed where te is, and is devoted to the studies the maery of which he has around him.

On the Board of Trustees are several laymen. but these will have no voice in the selection of professors, that being delegated to the Bishops. Mr. Eugene Kelly and his brother laymen will have the management of the finances, and they could not be placed in better hands.

INTERESTING GOSSIP OF THE DAY.

hos of Gov. Hill at the Hoffman House and of The presence of Gov. Hill at the Hoffman Home and of Licel. Cov. Jones at the Park Avenus brought desent of Local politicians up town yesterday to find out what was going on. Both of the much-sought officials were out all the day, and every sort of guess from a new move in the fenatorial equabile up to an alleged conference on Presidential matters, was indulged in by the waiting coterie in the hotal corridors. A flux reporter learned, however, that the Licutemant-Governor was in the city to satile some business contracts. The Governor's mission was one that would probably fall to other hands if he were not a bachelor. He was selecting the furniture he were not a bachelor. He was selecting the furniture for his new home at Albany, alle returned to Albany last night, after having made a tour of the furniture stores with Superintendent of the Capitol Perry. Gov. Hill told a friend that he had seen so many styles that he did not know exactly whether he was satisfied with his selections or not and that he would select on. or not and that he would rather put in a whole week at his deak in Albany than choose the furniture for another house. A listener suggested that the Governor ought to have delegated the task to some of his aquaintaness among the fair sex, but to this he modestly repiled that he was afraid he knew of no one to ask.

Some inquiries were made of Gov. Hill yesterday as to the course he intended to pursue toward the Senate in the matter of the hung-up nominations. He replied that he could not tell until he saw what the Senators proposed to do. He regarded the talk about impeaching the Lieutenant-Governor as ridiculous. His own views on the situation were fully expressed in his message to the Senate, he said, and he was going to stand by them. The Governor saw less than a dozen politicians.

Young Delancey Nicoll, the Assistant District Attorney, besides having examined the witnesses in all the Alder-manic cases and most of the hundreds of talesmen called, has digested the mass of testimony taken in the Anarchist trials in Chicago, and familiarized himself with all the points made in every case of official bribery that he could find a record of in any State. One of his that he could find a record of in any State. One of his daily tasks is to wade through the hundreds of anonymous letters that come to the District Attorney's office containing advice and "pointers" on the conduct of the beodle trials. They are coming in by the bushelful, now that a day for Sharp's trial is definitely fixed. Some of the best close that the prosecution has had have come in this way. The newspapers aided materially during the avantuation of thempos by mphishing the names of the examination of talesmen by publishing the names of those called. The publicity thus given resulted in the receipt of from one to a dozen letters about the charac-ter and associations of the men.

Senator Vest is still in the city under treatment for his eyes. He reiterates his early declarations about Presi-dent Cleveland's disincilination for a renomination with even more positiveness than ever. While talking on the subject with a group of politicians in the Hoffman on Friday night, however, the Missouri statesman made this addition to his former statements: "It is true that there may be influences brought to bear that will create a desire on Mr. Cleveland's part for a second term. I refer to the possible ambition of his wife to remain an-other four years as the first lady of the land. She is young and beautiful, and if she is in the least like Mrs. Adams and several other wives of former Presidents there can hardly be a doubt that she will bring her husand around to her way of thinking."

One of the striking features of trade under the Inter-State Commerce law is the rude and sudden diversion of strong currents of traffic in new directions. Call-fornia merchants are ordering their goods sent by water instead of rail Southern steamers for the first time in two years are carrying gunny bags to Southwestern farmers who have hitherto had to take them by rail, and Brooklyn and Philadelphia redneries are finding at loast a dozen interior States opened up for their sugar by the inability of Clans Spreckels to get his product this side of the Mississippi at a paying rate. New Eng-land mills are getting a great deal of cotton by water that used to come up from the South by rail. A repre-sentative of a Connecticut carriage house stated yester-day that his firm were soliciting orders now in places hith-erto controlled by Indiana manufacturers, to whom the increase in rates for shipment further west is much larger proportionately than to the Esst, because of the

A prominent dry goods merchant stated yesterday that there was a strong feeling through the trade that railroad rates would gradually settle back to the old figures. In the meantime, he added, there is compara-tively little doing in all branches, and even the best of the merchants are only getting back dellar for dellar. Nearly every house now has its drummers out for the fall trade, which is much more promising than last year. The Southwestern trade is especially brisk.

A close friend of Mr. Blaine, who saw the Maine states man as he passed through Boston last week, says of his plans for the coming year: "Mr. Blaine is going to Europe to keep his name out of the party strife that is fit to call on him while he is in a foreign land to take the leadership he will undoubtedly respond. I know, how-ever, that he feels that the call should come from those ever, that he reess that the call should come from those in the party who are not identified with him rather than from his friends. Those who can get him to talk on the subject of the candidacy find that he is much more ready to discuss the difficulties in the way of his re-nomination and the troubles that would arise from it."

are plenty of men who always hope to find Sharp at convivial gatherings, because if he is there there will be cause they can keep a supply of fiquids in the house. Take my case, for instance. I belong to the University, the New Amsterdam, the Harlem, and several other clubs, where I can get all the liquor I want on Sunday as well as any other day. Resides these opportunities. I always have liquor in my house. I don't suffer much, bu the poor suffer, and that is what I am kicking about."

Signor Galassi sailed for Europe yesterday on the City of Berlin, and it is hinted that a lively row is at the bot tom of his sudden retirement from the Patti troups three weeks before the tour is ended.

Coburn's Straw Bondsman in the Tomba.

When Joe Coburn was held at Jefferson Market on April 24 for violating the theatrical law, Abraham Lewis, a former proprietor of the pool rooms at 8 Centre street, went on his bail bond. Lewis swore that he was street, went on his bail bond. Lewis wore that he was owner of 8 Satton place. When the case came up in the Special Sessions on Wednesday an adjournment was asked for, and Coburn was locked np. On Thursday a man named tiarrison went surety for Coburn.

The Cicrk of special Sessions, George M. Wood, found out that Lewis did not own a Satton place, and swore out a warrant for perjury against him. Lewis was arrested yesterday, and committed to the Tombe without bail. Lewis has been very familiar with several of the Police Justices, and was in the habit of letting himself be seen walking in the streets with them.

Must a Militia Licutenant be a Citizen ! Capt. Hugh Coleman of the Sixty-ninth Regiment forwarded yesterday to Adjutant General Porter a report of the case of Nartin P. Dwyer of the Sixty ninth, report of the case of Nartin P. Dwyer of the Sixty mint, who was elected a First Lieutenant on Dec. 28, 1884, and to whom the Examining Board refused to grant a commission on the ground that he is not a clitzen of the United States. It appears that Dwyer arrived in this country on June 4, 1845, and was enlisted in Company H. Fixty-ninth Regiment, on Oct. 18, 1883. Its declared his intentions on Jan. 29, 1884. In Reptember, 1884, he was elected First Lieutenant. Capt. Coleman, who is a lawyer, holds that the Examining Board had no right to refuse Dwyer a commission after he has passed the atamination, whether he was a clitteen or not.

A YOUNG WOMAN'S SUIGIDE

the Leaves a Letter Saying that her Pathe Breve her to Take her Life.

PORTLAND, Me., April 30.-A sensational spicide occurred on Green street at 2 o'clock this morning, the victim being Miss Alice Cobb, aged 24 years, daughter of Alvin Cobb, recently a resident of Cape Elizabeth. It is said that for some time past the girl has shown signs of insanity, accompanied by violent fits of temper and other strange actions. She was much agitated on account of having been accused of stealing a pair of gold spectatoles, and spoke revengefully of her accusers. Early spoke revengerully of her acousers. Early this morning the girl's father heard a pistol abot in her room, and forcing an entrance, found her dead on the floor with a ball through the heart. The following note was fastened to the wall with a knife:

the wall with a knife:

I am not crasy, but my health is broken. A dead woman's curse on all who have wronged ma. Father wants me to die. I will do so. But if my spirit can come back I will haunt him until he dies. Take my letter to Maggie for her so burn. I am weary of living and suffering. Father has driven me to this.

Alex.

Mr. Cobb said his daughter was unquestion-ably insane, and had been so some time. He knew she had a revolver, and deeply regretted that he had never taken it from her. It is be-lieved a love affair unsettled her reason.

A person who had seen Jacob Sharp in court only would not believe him to be a joily old dog. But there are plenty of men who always hope to find Sharp at convivining atherings, because if he is there there will be laugister and enjoyment. He is a member of the Bloes of Club. He plays a great deal of poker in the club. The limit is a wide one, and Sharp has the regulation of being a good loser, or, in other words, he neither whimes nor raves when luck is against him.

From the Petersburg (Va.) Index-Appeal, April 19. THRILLING CHAPTERS IN THE CAREER OF A POPULAR PETERSBURGER.

WHAT MAYOR JARRATT, EX-GOV, CAMERON, GEN. STITH BOLLING, AND OTHERS THINK OF MR. COLLIER-SENSATIONAL STATEMENTS OF A SINCERE MAN.

Who is better known in this community than Mr. fames E. Collier of the Basin Mills? James E. Collier of the Basin Mills?

For fifteen years a sore affliction cast dark shadows over the pathway of that amiable gentleman's life. What that sore trial was Mr. Collier has consented to write down, in the hope that his experience may be the means of aiding others to escape the dark days that threaten all lives. To show to the world how he is regarded we give the testimony of his fellow citizens: MAYOR'S OFFICE, Petersburg, Va., April 18, 1887.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN: TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:
This is to certify that Mr. James E. Collier, a citizen of Petersburg, is a gentleman of high social standing, of culture, of integrity of character, and entirely worthy T. J. JARRATT, Mayor. WILLIAM E. CAMERON, ex-Governor of Va.

Gen. SITH BOLLING.
GEO. C. GARY, Proprietor Hotel Gary.
Two years ago Mr. Collier came into the city from his country place and engaged in the flour milling business;
it is safe to say that no private citizen is better known and more generally belowed. Here is Mr. Collier's letter:

SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, Ga.:

Gentlemen: You will pardon me in being a little long in this letter, for I am desirous that you shall know the details of the most wonderful cure of myself by 8. S. S. In 1871 a kind of rash broke out on my forehead that stung severely. The next year, at about the same time (the fall), my forehead was covered with boils, which lasted two or three weeks. In 1873, in September, my face swelled up so that I was unrecognizable for three months. During this time a yellow acrid water continually ran from my face. Then scabs would form, and the acrid discharge o ntinue until my skin was as thick as sole leather. By face was as hard and smooth, save when the scabs would form, as billiard and smooth, save when the scabs would form, as a billiard hay note, and these months was swellen up event the system of the categorials.

After the running would stop, having run two weeks, the swelling would subside in about a week. During the subsiding the face was very red. As soon as the cheeks had gone down to almost their normal size my whole faces would begin to throb like a painful boil, and the throbbins was quite as painful as the worst boil. When the swelling was up o the highest the acrid yellow discharge began, and it lasted about two weeks.

This swelling, running, and scabbing lasted fitteen years. During those years here was no intermission of the agony described I was all the time under the best physicians, who pronounced my case exagerated comma in its worst forin. So serious was the case that one of the physicians saked me to go to Philadelphia with him, and put myself under the skin specialists of that city.
